Ben and Maya hadn't made this trip before, so they didn't know how long it would take them to get to the top of the mountain. But they knew they shouldn't arrive after dark. They had been climbing for a few hours when Ben called to Maya, "I've forgotten to wear my watch. Do you know what time it is?"

"My phone is in my backpack." said Maya. "You'll have to wait while I get it out and check."

"Let's stop for a snack, then." said Ben. "I'm quite hungry."

"You're always hungry!" laughed Maya.

After eating their sandwiches they continued climbing and soon saw the place they were going to set up camp for the night.

"That's good!" they both said. "We're here at last!"
